

Down in Washington the children roll eggs on the White House lawn Easter Sunday. These are enchanted eggs. Paint them with plain water and release them from the spell which keeps them from being their real picturesque selves.